

EDUCATE TOMORROW

GIRLS' LEADERSHIP PROJECT

Inspiring Tomorrow's Leadership Today

EDUCATE TOMORROW

GLP MISSION:

The goal of Girls' Leadership is to expose young women, formerly in foster care, who demonstrate potential for great leadership to positive people and experiences. The girls work together with established female leaders, acquire skills from leadership retreats and workshops, and participate in civic and community events. By engaging in activities that improve self-esteem and cultivate personal growth, the girls are able to break free of the "at-risk" stereotypes and achieve higher goals.

SETTING THE EXAMPLE:

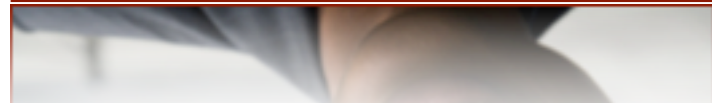

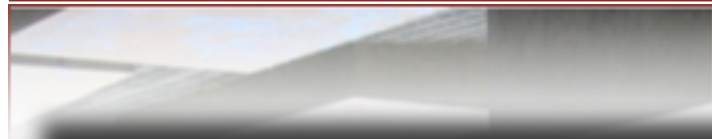

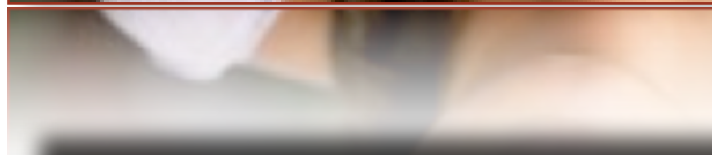

GLP LEADERS

GLC Mentors are women who demonstrate a commitment to their community, great personal success, and a desire to create a long-lasting impact. Mentors should be involved with or have interest in involvement in civic and community activities.

PLANTING THE SEED:

LEADERSHIP RETREATS

Each girl attends a girls leadership retreat at the Woodhull Institute for Ethical Leadership to learn from female leaders from across the country. The institute is designed to educate a small group of women in the practical skill to succeed in today's businesses, political and community environments. Girls are taught ethical leadership; professional development skills; and be directed to networks, mentors and resources that can channel their leadership aspirations into practical and attainable achievements.

10 PROJECT LEADERS LEADERS

Share their insight and experience to create an environment where GLC girls work to discover their inner strengths and abilities. Monthly activities include:

- Defining leadership,
- Self-definitions: Creating yourself in your own image
- Current events: roles and responsibilities,
- Find your inner leader,
- Deciding what's important,
- Council leaders and participants will attend community, civic, and professional events

Participants present on behalf Educate Tomorrow to various organizations, participating in activities, and implement the curriculum created by the project at the Girls' Leadership Camp.

WOODHULL INSTITUTE FOR ETHICAL LEADERSHIP RETREAT

Because of Woodhull's commitment to equitable access for all women, the institute awarded matching scholarships for each of the GLC girls to attend a retreat in Acramdale, New York.

AIRFARE AND RETREAT: $500

Donors will receive a presentation or letter of thank you (group vs. individual) telling what each girl gained from the experience, a tax deduction, and recognition on the GLC weblink.
